

A variety of voices is the essence of democracy. Relaxing the current restrictions over private ownership of the airwaves destroys that value. Commerce should not determine whether or not we have access to independent and provocative ideas.